THE WORLD'S FAIR. FIFTH DAY.

The attendance at the Fair Ground yesterday was very good, although compared with the throng of the day before, it failed to make the impression as a "show of people" that it otherwise would have done, and say what we will, folks at tend fairs and gatherings, as much to look at the crowd of other folks as for anything else. Some few articles in the halls had been removed or packed up, but the chief attraction being the horse and cattle rings, and the Steam Fire Engine, it did not seem to detract from the exhibi-

LATTA'S STEAM PIRE ENGINE. A tank had been dug in the center of the cattle ring, about four or five feet deep, and a square of twenty feet, and water conducted in troughs to it from the canal. The engine was placed alongeide of this tank, and at eleven o'clock the match was applied to the wood in the furnace, and in six minutez-some watches made it five-it was throwing water. The water was 2d, forced through a one and one-eighth inch nozzle, and in a few seconds after it made its appearance it was played over the tops of the highest trees in the park. The throwing was very fine, and satisfied all who witnessed it of the superiorityif there had heretofore been any doubts-of steam over muscle for deluging a burning building. The length of the throw was not measured, but the capacity of machines of the same make and size ranges from 235 to 250 feet, and to judge by the eye, the distance made was between those figures. It is not, however, on the length of the throw of water that the friends of the steam fire engines base their argument in their favor, but in the constancy of the stream, steam never tiring, whereas muscle will ache and breath give

The engine exhibited weighs seventy-five hundred pounds, and is worth $5,500. It is different from the engines first constructed by the Messrs. Latta--lighter, and having many improvements, and has been fully tested by the fire departments of St. Louis and Louisville-the former employing six of this class and the latter three.

From the reports of the Fire Departments of the cities that use steam fire engines we find that the decrease in the loss by insurance since their introduction has been enormous. In Cincinnati, notwithstanding the increase of houses and property to be destroyed, the losses have decreased two hundred per cent., and it is the same with other cities. In speaking of the subject, the Scientific Artisan says:

It really seems to us, if the insurance compa nics understood the subject properly, they would make money by furnishing these machines for their respective cities, gratis. Two of the six engines of St. Louis were bought by the underwriters of that city, and presented by them to the city. Other cities should do likewise. The insurance companies of Cincinnati have amassed more money during the past three years than in any three previous years. Facts are stubborn things, and if what has been done in other cities, where these engines have been used, is any evidence of merit, they certainly possess all that can be asked in the shape of steam fire engines.

THE HORSE RING. The track in the horse ring was in a bad con dition, and the exhibitions there were not as good ne they otherwise would have be n Ir would be very unfair to take the time made as a test of the speed of the horses on a dry course. The most exciting match was the trotting in harness of Mr. Noble's and Mr. Browning's horses The first mile, four rounds and a half, was a dead heat at 3:20. On the second trial, Mr. Brown ing's made it in 3:10, and Mr. Noble's in 3:20.

The pacing in the afternoon elicited a good deal of interest, but we have not space to give the details.

THE CATTLE RING. The show here for sweepstakes was fine, the blooded animals looking to so much better advantage on the green, than when pent up in their parrow stalls. Mr. Lingenfelter's bull from Hen dricks county swept the stakes, as he had done the premium, although many contended that "Crusader" was the finer animal. Mr. John Matlack, of Danville, took the sweepstakes on cows; Mr. Meredith, of Wayne county, on herds; Mr. David George, of Marion, on sheep; and Mr. George Brown, of Marion, on ewes.

[CONCLUDED MONDAY.] A NICE PRESENT .- A gentleman living on Meridian street was awoke about two o'clock yester day morning by a melodious noise at his door t sounded in the still air like the voice of a child a very young child. Now it rose and now it fell; anon it swelled to the higher keys of the vocal art, and then died away in bird-note tones, like what no voice but that of a healthy infant can be. Being a dear lover of children, and not execting to have any more of his own, he rushed

We copy the following notice of one of our rtensive business houses from the Journal. We nay add that all the goods in the manu acturing lepartment of Moritz & Brothers' establishment are new, the cutting and making of garments having been recently added to their business:

Fine Goods.—Moritz & Bro, in the Blackford Block, No. 3 E ist Washington street, have the largest (and the best for being the largest) stock of piece goods for manufacture into garments for gentlemen that was ever brought to this city. There is more variety, a better quality, all things considered, in the goods of this house than can be found elsewhere. The proprietors are determined to sell them, and offer superior inducements to customers to call and examine their stock. They also offer, at No. 19 West Washington street, a heavy and very superior stock of clothing. At each of these establishments, the purchaser will get the full worth of his money, and get it in new, fashionable and excelle

Police Items.—There was not a solitary case from the lock up before the Mayor vesterday. We feel like throwing up a hat and proclaiming this a model town. A big fair on hand-fifteen or twenty thousand people thrown together under the excitement of a big balloon, and no rioting, or rowdyism, or drunkenness to note. An evening cotemporary speaks of having seen a great deal of drunkenness, but we suspect he was like the man in the lunatic assylum, who pronounced everybody crazy but himself. The earth s very unsteady to some folks.

Alexander Redwine was fined ten dollars and osts for selling liquor without license. His Honor remarked that it looked a little odd to fine Red wine for selling White whisky, but his duty compeiled him to do it.

STEALING AT THE FAIR .-- The amount of this kind of business at the fair just closed was small comparatively. A case of coral jewelry FRENCH MILLINERY was taken yesterday from the Miscelli Hall, and after a long search some rings, broacher &c., were found in possession of a lady, who rotested that they were presented to her by a gentleman, whom she promised to find.

A person outside had his pocket picked of $5. Deputy Marshal Bisbing arrested a man on the bank of the canal for the act, who threw a wad, supposed to be money, into the water. He was lodged in jail.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONERS COURT.—Cooper shose arrest on a charge of having designs on the mail, we noticed a few days ago, was brought before Commissioner Hall yesterday for examination. The case was continued until this day week, Cooper giving bail for his appearance at that time. William Garver, Esq., appeared for the United States, and Byron K. Elli for the defense.

DAMAGE OF THE LATE FLOOD.—We continu to hear of increased damage sustained by citizens, in the recent food of Sunday night citizens, in the recent mond or Sunday night last, and regret to learn that property recently purchased by Major McClure, of the United States Army, was damaged to the amount of $1,000 or over. Nearly every bath-house in the city was destroyed—$10,000 will not cover the loss of our citizens.—Sen Astonis Herald, Sept. 7:
